A MODERN SAMSON.

IRON MUSCLES HAS THIS YOUNG NEW YORKER.

Has Never Trained, Smokes Cigarettes Constantly, Yet Performs Feats that Are Wonderful in the Extreme.

STRONGEST OF THE STRONG.

At this time when the "modern Hercules" and the "modern Samson," and more "iron men" than one can count are before the public, it is both interesting and novel to find a modest, beardless boy of 18 years, performing feats of strength that make many of the alleged wonders wonder what will appear next in the line of prodigies, says the New York Sun. Men who speak from authority say that it is only a question of time and proper care when young Emil Jarow will give performances that will actually cause the new found Samson to appear as helpless as the real Samson when he was shorn of his hair by Delilah. This boy has lately been giving performances in bar-rooms and before clubs in the upper end of town. He has had neither manager nor press agent, but he has attracted the attention of a dozen or more athletes who agree that he is not only the strongest boy of his years ever seen in this country, but is entitled to be ranked among the strongest of strong men. What he will do when his strength is fully developed, in from four to ten years, is a matter of prophecy.

The other evening a Sun reporter was one of a group of six men who saw this youngster's prowess. It was in an up town saloon. The boy dropped in casually and leaned against the bar, and attracted no special notice. There were no signs of unusual strength in his appearance. He is 5 feet 7 inches in height and weighs 132 pounds. His chest is broad and his legs are well set, though not heavy. His neck is rather long and is not thick, as is common with prize fighters and athletes. The muscles of his arms do not bulge out of the sleeves of his coat, and the buttons do not drop from his vest when he draws a long breath. In his rough dress he looked like one of a common class of bar-room loungers. His countenance wore a pale and unhealthy look, doubtless the result of his persistent habit of smoking cigarettes.

"Jarow, can't you show a few tricks to these gentlemen?" asked the bartender.

"What kind of tricks?" asked some one.

"Oh, different feats of strength. That is our strong boy," was the answer.

A general laugh followed when the men looked for indications of strength. The proprietor, a man weighing 240 pounds, sat down in an oak chair weighing 20 pounds, and said to the boy:

"Just raise me up for a start."

The spectators gathered in a semi-circle, while the boy lit another cigarette and smiled. He stepped quickly over to the chair, took hold of one of the round knobs with his right hand and lifted the chair and man off the floor.

There was less laughing and more interest among the spectators. They wanted to see the boy's muscles, and he stripped off his shirt. Then they saw a remarkable development of the arms and chest. The boy raised his right arm, and the muscles stood out in great twists and knots that seemed played into changing lines. He held his arm out straight. "See if you can bend it, any two of you," he said.

Two of the heaviest and strongest of the spectators threw their entire weight upon the extended arm. It withstood their efforts like a bar of steel. The left arm is quite as well developed and as strong as the right. The biceps measure 14 inches. The boy has remarkable power of grip, as is shown by one of his favorite feats, that of tearing a pack of cards with one motion. He also piles five chairs, weighing 20 pounds each, on another chair, which he grasps by the lower round with his hand turned upward. Slowly he lifts the pile from the floor and raises it above his head without changing the position of his hand. Something of the strength required for this feat may be understood by the person who will try to lift one chair, even a light one, from the floor in the manner described.

Jarow expects that after awhile his chest development will permit him to do the "carrying feats," as he calls the performance of Sandow when he holds two horses or a piano and orchestra on his chest. His chest now measures 38 inches. When it is expanded 3½ inches it looks like the top of a Saratoga trunk. He has not yet tried the strength of his chest by serious tests, but has given nearly all of his trials with his arms. He lifts 800 pounds, dead weight, without a harness. He has never used a harness or any of the trappings which professional strong men sometimes employ to save their muscles and deceive the public. He is satisfied to give exhibitions in saloons and pick up a dollar or two of an evening by buying a bed, a cheap meal and plenty of cigarettes.

One thing that he does is to write his name, not after the methods taught in writing schools, but in an entirely original way. He ties a 40 pound dumb bell to the wrist of his right hand, and writes his name on the wall with more speed than most people can write on a table. It is a matter of doubt whether this feat can be done by more than two of the famous strong men of the day.

After the spectators had seen Jarow perform several feats, the bartender rolled an empty beer keg of the size known as the quarter barrel, out on the floor. It weighed 110 pounds. Jarow reached down and placed his little finger, one under each of the iron bound rims. With this slender support alone he raised the keg squarely in front of him. He held it there for a minute, and then grasping it with both hands, raised the keg over his head sixteen times. He also lifted the keg from the floor to a chair with the fingers of his right hand. This is another performance that strong men do not care to try. There are many men traveling about with shows who can toss about heavy iron balls and lift enormous dumb bells, but when it comes to performing feats of strength with their fingers they are outclassed by this boy. One of his cleanest and most satisfactory performances was given one evening in the gymnasium of the Spalding Literary Club at 31 west 6th street. He picked up a 300 pound wooden "horse" from the floor and held it at arms' length from his body. The crack athlete of the club could barely move it.

A feature of this boy's strength is that it was not acquired, but born in him. It is the fashion nowadays for the Sandows and the Attilas to write pamphlets and newspaper syndicate letters on the art of becoming strong, and to give directions for following certain methods which they have employed to acquire strength. Each has his own way and gives his own experience. Jarow never learned any of these things, and he has no advice to give. So far back as he can remember he was the strongest boy of his years among his associates. When he was five years old he could lift weights that could not be moved by boys ten years older. As he grew this strength increased in proportion to his years.

He never worked in a gymnasium for any length of time, and has never been instructed in athletic work. He has never studied the ways of strong men at their professional exhibitions, and has never had a lifting harness, because he never had enough money to buy one. He likes to show his strength when there is a little money in it for him, but his success has not increased his vanity to any appreciable extent. He is said to have a particular aversion to hard work. Last summer he was with Buffalo Bill's wild west show, when he was employed to care for and clean the guns, and see that there was always a supply of glass balls for the long haired scout to break at his daily exhibitions. A few weeks ago a gentleman up town, who became interested in the boy's work, got a place for him at a club at Bartow-on-the-Sound. He worked one day and threw up the job. If not picked up by a clever manager he will probably be found around the saloons of New York during the winter.

Train Fired Into—Cashier McDowell Not Heard From—Cheap "Gold Dust"—Tornado in Louisiana, Etc.

HAPPENINGS HERE AND THERE.

No Tidings From Cashier McDowell. Cashier Joe McDowell, of the Estill county deposit bank, has not yet returned, and his protracted absence being somewhat veiled in mystery, especially when the cash on hand was found to be nil, the bank directory has commenced an investigation. The bank is a private institution, of $50,000 capital, 40 per cent. of which was paid up. There are notes due the bank amounting to about $40,000. There is due depositors about $17,000.

As to whether the bank owes other debts save one of $3,500 is not known, as it is reported the cashier had borrowed money in Louisville in the name of the bank and had only accounted for a part of such loans. His individual account shows a balance to his credit of about $700, but as the books had been very loosely kept it will be impossible to state with certainty the condition of affairs until a complete overhauling of the books is made. Cashier McDowell left Irvine on the 28th ult., saying he was going to Cincinnati to borrow money to relieve the bank of a temporary stringency; and no tidings have been had of him doubt is or retained of his return.

—haspeake & Ohio Train Fired Into. As the C. & O. vestibuled F. F. V. train reached Wiley station on the night of the 2nd inst., bound for Louisville, engineer Kenney and fireman Billy Maden were fired on by some one concealed in the bushes along the track. Three bullets entered the window of the cab near Kenney's head. He did not stop the train.

It is believed that some one was trying to wreck the train. On Wednesday evening the same train was derailed by the rails spreading at the same point where the shots were fired, and Sunday night last the train ran into a lot of trees piled on the track by train wrecks. Two attempts have been made to wreck the train near Wiley station in the past year.

That the train robber is abroad is evidenced by the fact that a few nights ago at the Louisville Southern train reached Lawrenceburg three shots were fired into the cab. Detectives are at work trying to locate the miscreants. As usual the railroad officials were reticent and said that there was nothing in it.

Tornado in Louisville.

Sherwood, La., and vicinity was visited by a disastrous storm on the 21st. The velocity of the wind was about 43 miles an hour, but in portions of Bossier parish it was much more severe. It is reported that hundreds of bales of cotton in the fields have been destroyed. Much loss has been sustained by the killing of stock by falling timber. Cabins, out-houses, gins, cribs and many residences have been blown away or overturned. Trees and fences also suffered, but as far as known nobody was killed, although several narrow escapes from death are reported.

Bought "Gold Dust" Cheap.

Meyer J. Cohen, a tailor at 78 Prince street, Boston, Mass., has reported to the police the loss of $6,500 by a clever swindler. Cohen through a friend made a deal with a stranger to purchase forty pounds of gold dust, alleged to have been secured in the Siberian mines, where the swindler said he had served sixteen years of a life sentence before he escaped. The value of the dust was said to be $10,000, but the swindler would take $6,500 for it. Cohen paid the money. The trust proved to be worthless.

Vote for John R. Hobbs.

Not knowing who the Democratic nominee for jailer of Wolfe county was, and not believing that our Captain correspondent would so impose on us as to write a communication opposing the election of a Democratic nominee, we unwittingly in our issue of October 19th published a letter from him in which he made an attack on John R. Hobbs, the Democratic nominee for jailer of Wolfe county. Now, we deem it unnecessary to say that the Sentinel-Democrat, under its present management, is, and will ever be, Democratic—loyal to the candidates and principles of that party. For the error we were led into by publishing a communication attacking a Democratic nominee and opposing his election, we make a most abject apology, and advise all our Democratic friends in Wolfe county to vote the ticket straight. We have it from no less an authority than that able and true Democrat, Judge D. B. Redwine, that John R. Hobbs, though poor, is a straightforward, honorable man, a consistent Democrat, and in every way qualified for the position of jailer, and is worthy of, and should receive, the support of every Democrat in Wolfe county. In the future "Supple Jack's" letters will at once find their way to the waste-basket.

Democrats of Wolfe, vote for John R. Hobbs for jailer. We know he is worthy of your support, because Dave Redwine told us so.—Mt. Sterling Sentinel-Democrat, 2d Inst.

The strange inconsistency of R. L. Athy, alias "Supple Jack," of Campton, is alarming. In a lurid letter published in the Gazette this week, he claims to be a never-dying Republican, and lauds the policy of that party to the skies. And in the same letter he tells that he has been writing "Democratic doctrine" to the Sentinel-Democrat. The Gazette headlines the letter so as to make Athy a falsifier. A man that writes such contradictory letters and doctrines needs to be taught better manners. The S.D. apologizes to its readers for publishing his letters. It was grossly deceived. The S.D. does not want anyone to write a sentence, or word, for its columns that is not strictly true.—Mt. Sterling Sentinel-Democrat, 2d Inst.

A Woman Persists in Her Persecution of the Man She Loves.

Rev. Fitzgerald Parker, the handsome young pastor of the Dryades street Methodist church, New Orleans, La., is the victim of a peculiar persecution. It is the custom of the minister to request all those who desire to become Christians and lead a better life to come forward. Among those who arose to go to the altar was a lady giving her name as Mrs. A. D. Forbes. Turning to the lady, Mr. Parker said: "Now, madam, it is of you I wish to speak to the people. You may re-

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

President Cleveland Declares Thursday, Nov. 28, as a Day to Be Observed.

The president has issued the following proclamation:

By the president of the United States of America:

The American people should gratefully render thanksgiving and praise to the Supreme Ruler of the universe, who has watched over them with kindness and fostering care during the year that has just passed; they should also with humility and faith supplicate the Father of all mercies for continued blessings according to their needs, and they should by deeds of charity seek the favor of the giver of every good and perfect gift.

Therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, do hereby appoint and set apart Thursday, the 29th day of November instant, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, to be kept and observed by all the people of the land.

On that day let our ordinary work and business be suspended, and let us meet in our accustomed places of worship and give thanks to Almighty God for our preservation as a nation, for our immunity from disease and pestilence, for the harvests that have rewarded our husbandry, for a renewal of national prosperity, and for every advance in virtue and intelligence that has marked our growth as a people.

And with our thanksgiving let us pray that these blessings may be multiplied unto us that our national conscience may be quickened to a better recognition of the power and goodness of God, and that in our national life we may clearer see and closer follow the path of righteousness.

And in our places of worship and praise, as well as in the happy reunions of kindred and friends, on that day let us invoke divine approval by generously remembering the poor and needy. Surely He who has given us comfort and plenty will look upon our relief of the destitute and our ministrations of charity as the work of hearts truly grateful and as proofs of the sincerity of our thanksgiving.

Witness my hand and the seal of the United States which I have caused to be hereunto affixed, Done in the city of Washington on the first day of November, in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and nineteen, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and nineteenth.

A BAD LOT.

The Sanctified Band on Trial at Accotink, Virginia.

The trial of the sanctified band of Chinoteague Island was had at Accotink courthouse, Va., on the 2nd inst. The leaders of this fanatical gang stand indicted on the charge of being guilty of a conspiracy to separate wives from their husbands and otherwise disturbing the peace and harmony of the people of Chinoteague.

James H. Fletcher appeared for the Commonwealth and Russell & Spady for the defense. A motion to quash the indictment was promptly overruled, and thirteen witnesses were examined, several of them women, for the prosecution. The courthouse was packed with people, and many were unable to gain entrance. The testimony was rare, rich and racy, the most of it being unfit for publication.

The substance of the testimony of the witnesses was that Lynch and Workman, leaders of the gang, had preached sanctification, persuading women to leave their unsanctified husbands and become the partners, or fellow workers of "sanctified men." Some of the witnesses told pathetic stories how their homes had been invaded and their dcluded wives alienated and taken from them, together with their little children. Lynch had told the women this was the only way to raise up a holy nation. Sometimes the witnesses would make remarks or relate incidents that would make the courtroom shake with laughter, and then the story of some desolate home would moisten the eyes of the assemblage.

BERNARDOTTE, one of Napoleon's marshals, who afterwards became King of Sweden, was educated in the office of a country notary, and spent his time in copying legal papers.

SOUTHEY, the poet, spent most of his boyhood in his father's linen shop. He wrote verses in the intervals of business and kept his papers hidden among the goods.

WESER, the painter, showed his talent at a very early age. He made sketches in charcoal before he was ten, and some of his early work displays great ease in the use of the crayon.

JOHN HOWARD showed in boyhood the philanthropic traits that afterwards made his name famous. He was continually on the lookout for some case of distress that he might relieve.

WOOLERY's early life is said to have been passed mainly in the slaughter house of his father, who was a butcher. He was sometimes called by his enemies "The Butcher's Dog."

MASTERS IN ART.

ALLOM's "Judith" is the portrait of his mistress. The head of Holofernes is a portrait of the artist himself.

CANACI was the father of the pathetic Indian school. The Ecoe Home and Mother Day date from that time.

HODGSON was an engraver, and before turning his attention to oil painting he was an engraving master of arms.

GIOVIO was a shepherd boy, and began his artistic career by sketching with a piece of chalk on a piece of slate.

BRENGHIERI was the first artist to give attention to the different phases of peasant life and represent them on canvas.

LOLAINE was left an orphan at the age of twelve, and was cared for by his brother, who instructed him in wood engraving.

PAUL PAINTER painted so much after the manner of Titian that many works proved to be his were long credited to the latter.

FRANCIS did not begin painting until nearly sixty years of age, and in ten years executed a long series of admirable works.

CRANACH is known as the friend of Luther. Several pictures of the great reformer, painted by this master, are still in existence.

Ashante Savages.

"The most savage and horrible of all the barbarous customs of the Ashantes in Africa," says Prof. W. G. Steadman of Washington, "is that of celebrating the death of a king or great noble by a sacrifice of other lives. Indeed, all but a few of the principal men often attend by a holocaust of human beings."

They believe that when a king or a noble dies he must have wives and slaves in the next world, just as he had in this, and in order that these may not be wanting, the simple expedient is resorted to of killing his wives and slaves and sending them after him. But as they believe that the dead are not able to receive these offerings, the survivors are unwilling to send the root C. O. D. The Chinese make a mystery of the trade, but they send abroad for who are not only ready, but anxious, to be offered up in honor of a dead king.

Ginseng in China.

Ginseng is an important article of export to China, and the trade is largely in the hands of the resident Chinese themselves. They buy the root of wholesale dealers, who get it of country folk at about two dollars and fifty cents a pound. Chinamen seldom pay more than $1.50 a pound, because the latter being unacquainted with the Celestials are unwilling to send the root C. O. D. The Chinese make a mystery of the trade, but they send abroad yearly many thousands of dollars' worth of ginseng.

Letter to the Jamestown (N. Y.) Sun.

"Basti, Chautauqua Co., N. Y., July 19, 1888.
Editor Sun—I consider it a duty to make the following statement. One year ago last April I became afflicted with a severe pain. I employed one of the most experienced physicians of this section of the county. I frequently rode to his office, braced up in my carriage with pillows. I obtained no permanent relief. I was Reduced to a mere Skeleton.

My father, Jacob Johnson, of Eliz., died of the same disease three years ago, and I began to think there was little hope for me.

Some time in Aug. Dr. M. M. Fenner of Fredonia, N. Y., called on me while making his canvas for the state senate. Learning of my condition he said he made a remedy for at which he would send me some. His Kidney and Backache Cure helped me from the start.

My condition improved, the soreness left my sides and back, and I took on healthy muscle and flesh.

I have not met Dr. Fenner since, but I can say enough in praise of his Kidney and Backache Cure. Yours truly,

TRUMAN H. JOHNSON."

THE HERALD

SPENCER COOPER, : : : Editor.

HAZEL GREEN, KY.
THURSDAY, November 8, 1894.

"Politics is hell," as Jim Jewell has said, but it might have been worse, is some consolation.

All the Democrats in the county were elected but our candidate for county judge, whom Judge Carson defeated by a majority of 104.

The "kangaroo ballot" is a good screen behind which to turn a trick, judging from the results of Tuesday's election, and the "swapping" done by somebody on that occasion would put to shame anything of the kind ever attempted.

Do we accept the situation? Of course we do, and very much after the man who, being asked if his son was willing to die, replied: "Willin' or no willin' he had to cut." But we have no individual regrets. We only regret that the party lost.

The returns bear out us in one thing, at least. We said the Republicans had out their best men, and we believe the rankest partisan in that party will agree with us that no two Republicans in the county could have polled the vote accorded Judge Carson and Mr. Wilson on Tuesday last.

The news reached here Wednesday evening that W. C. Owens, Democratic candidate for congress from the 7th district, was defeated by Judge Donny, the Republican nominee, by about 300 majority. If this be so it is the result of the vituperative abuse heaped upon Mr. Breckinridge and his supporters in the recent primary, and therefore it does not come in the nature of a surprise.

THE HERALD, having made the fight for the party nominee and lost, now stands ready to support Judge Carson in "every good word and work," and we feel already that we shall find much in his official career to command, sincerely believing that he will make Wolfe county a very acceptable presiding officer. His experience as judge and sheriff, respectively, years ago, eminently qualify him for the duties he will be called upon to assume in January, and we believe he will give us a clean administration of county affairs.

The tax having failed to carry in Morgan county on Tuesday, Mr. Bros should now turn his attention to our route, and see what can be effected in the way of donations, etc. We believe he can secure proper inducements to come our way if he will only make the effort, and we are also inclined to the opinion that he can run a road from Rothwell to Caney for much less than his corps of engineers formerly estimated. To determine this a new survey might have to be made, but the cost would only be nominal, considering the many other advantages. A half dozen cheaper routes than the one his surveyors chose can be found, any of which are equally as practical, and when he looks into the matter we believe he will be most thoroughly convinced that the route by way of Hazel Green is the one he should take under any and all circumstances. Let us hear from you, Mr. Bros.

The indications now are that the Democrats have elected a Congressman from each of the eleven districts, with the possible exception of the Seventh, in which Denny has probably defeated Owens, as elsewhere mentioned in this paper. In this district Kendall and Beckner are undoubtedly elected by safe, though small, majorities. In this county Kendall received 176 majority, Menefee gives him 150 and Powell shows up with her usual majority of 50. As Breathitt put every Democrat in by a handsome majority, she undoubtedly gave the congressional nominees a good vote. Montgomery, Elliott, Estill, Floyd and Pike have likewise done their Democratic duty, and Clark will prove the banner county, while Morgan, Kendall's native county, has certainly furnished her quota. Presuming our estimates as facts, the Republican counties could not overcome them. Anyhow we will continue to hope, and in our next give the result.

This bird got a touch of cholera Tuesday, and he has since been unable to stand up and crow. While he is a "sick chicken," just now he will recover in time, and his clarion notes yet be heard in the land.

KNOWS A GOOD THING WHEN HE SEES IT.
Cane Fork, Breathitt County, Ky., October 31st, 1894.

Mr. Cooper—My dear friend—I take this method of thanking you for past favors. You have performed an excellent job on our minutes. They are printed on nice clean white paper, with very readable type, and bound in beautiful tinted paper in good style. The entire job gives perfect satisfaction. We sincerely thank you for same.

You will find enclosed forty cents in stamps to pay postage on our minutes, as per your request.

Again we will ask you to accept our thanks for the nice work you have done for us. We also wish you to do our printing hereafter. From yours,

Very respectfully,
REV. JOHN F. ARROWOOD.

A Policeman's Home.

The Virginia state building at the World's fair, which was a reproduction of George Washington's Mt. Vernon mansion, was purchased and is now occupied as a residence by a Chicago policeman named McGuire. The house, which cost $17,000, was bought by McGuire for $400, and moved to a lot on Stony Island avenue, three miles away, and now a Chicago policeman sleeps in a reproduction of the bedchamber of the father of his country. The officer furnished the house with furniture modeled after that at Mt. Vernon.

Danger From Cataract.

The most important feature about that very common complaint, cataract in the head, is its tendency to develop into some other more serious and dangerous disease. The foul matter dropping from the head into the bronchial tubes, or lungs is very liable to lead to bronchitis or consumption, that destroyer which causes more deaths in this country than any other disease. As cataract originates in impurities in the blood, local applications can do but little good. The common sense method of treatment is to purify the blood, and for this purpose there is no preparation better than Dr. H. S. Sarapilla. The powerful action of this medicine upon the blood expels every impurity, and by so doing cures cataract and gives health to the entire organism.

A SERIOUS CHARGE
Confronts Mr. Baum, the Mayor of Mt. Sterling.

We copy the following from the Mt. Sterling Daily News of the 5th inst:

Last night, just after the people from the various churches had gone to their homes, Mayor Adam Baum came out of the post office and turned up Broadway toward his home on High street. As he turned the corner of Main and Broadway, Henry Watson, councilman from the second ward, who was standing on the corner, called him and asked him what he meant by the way he had treated his little daughter.

Mr. Baum answered that he had done nothing wrong. Watson told him he was going to whip him or get whipped, and with a hickory cane about three-fourths of an inch in diameter began beating Mr. Baum over the head, knocking him down four times. Mr. Baum had a penitentiary cane and struck Watson two or three times, but did not hurt him. Watson was arrested and held over on $500 bond till Friday.

WATSON'S STATEMENT.

A New reporter called on Mr. Watson this morning and asked him for a statement, which he readily gave. He said: I believe it was on the 21st day of last month, I was in Cincinnati, when I received a telegram from my wife to come home, which I did at once, thinking my baby was worse, as it was sick when I left. On returning home I found my wife greatly troubled about what my little girl, Minnie Belle, aged ten years, had told her. The child said: "Mamma sent me to Mr. Baum's for some groceries, and I asked Mr. Baum for a box for my white rabbit. He took me back into a little room away from the grocery, picked out a box and asked me if that would do, and I said yes. Then he put one arm around me and put his other hand under my clothes and felt all over me. I broke away from him and went home and told my mother, and when the groceries came she sent them right back."

The child still sticks to her story, and no argument will induce her to say she is wrong. Mr. Watson says he did not want to act harshly in the matter and waited, thinking something might turn up to clear Mr. Baum of the terrible charge, and is sure Mr. Baum is guilty, or he would not have resorted to the measure he did.

MR. BAUM'S STATEMENT.

The new man found Mr. Baum in bed at his residence on High street. He is severely bruised about the head and is suffering considerably. Mr. Baum says: The story that I took improper liberties with the child is without foundation. The day the little girl was in my store my son Will and my clerk, Mr. Bardman, were there. She asked me for a box and I told her to come into the next room where we kept empty boxes and pick out one. As we came out of the room, in the presence of Will and Mr. Boardman, I put my arm around her. I had not the remotest idea of doing her any harm. She left the store in a perfectly good humor. Last night I was standing in the post office when Mr. Watson came in and went to his box. I believe I spoke to him as he came in. After I got my mail I started for home, little dreaming that I was to be attacked. When I passed the corner I said "good evening, gentlemen," and when Watson called me I little dreamed that he was going to attack me. I am innocent of doing any wrong.

The above is both sides of the affair. We take no sides in the matter, as we are not judge or jury. But, if Mr. Baum is guilty of the charge, he should step down and out as Mayor of this city, and if he is not, Mr. Watson should be punished for assault and battery to the full extent of the law.

Politics and Death.

At Hopewell, Greenup county, Ky., on the 2d inst., James Haney shot and killed Thomas Floyd and seriously injured Oliver Floyd, a brother. The trouble came up over politics, and was started at a public speaking. While at Hopewell the Floyd boys abused Haney, and when followed up he turned and put a bullet through the abdomen of Tom Floyd and one in the arm of his brother Oliver. Haney was arrested. Both parties are well known and respected farmers in the neighborhood of Hopewell.

* * *

A Bible normal class will soon be organized which will meet in the study of the Home on Friday evenings at 7 o'clock and remain in session till 8.

* * *

J. S. Adams is spending the week at his home in Magoffin county. He is busy, however, voting, soliciting pupils for our school, visiting his parents and his best —

* * *

Hon. P. W. Hardin is the best speaker we have heard on the political platform. His exposition of “high protective tariff” and “tariff for revenue” only, was very clear and forcible, as was his exposition of “free trade.” Our class in civics were awakened on these points.

* * *

What are our town authorities doing to have sidewalks made throughout the town? They filled all with great hope last spring, and now we suppose that hope will mire in the mud the coming winter. Hazel Green, as a town, has greater pretensions than any small town in the state, but it seems there can not be found a body of officers in it that has the courage of its convictions.

* * *

As all young people should be instructed as to the deleterious effects of tobacco and strong drink, an anti-tobacco and strong drink league will be formed at the Academy, which will disseminate information concerning the use of such, and which will use every honorable means to win those addicted to the use of such from it, and to keep others from using it. This league will have regular times for its meetings, and will have quite a literary and social feature belonging to it.

DANCING AND DANCES.

GALLINI, in his "Travels in Africa," declares that the people of the west coast are exceedingly fond of dancing. He once tried to tire them out, but as long as he could raise his hand to his violin they continued to dance, and he was forced to desist.

ONE of the most famous early ballet dancers was Marie Taglioni. Made who ruined by lavish financial schemes dressed herself in her finest robes and committed suicide publicly by jumping off a Seine bridge at noon in the presence of thousands of people.

MARIA TAGLIONI, the danseuse, was the daughter of an Italian ballet master. She was born in 1804, went on the stage in 1822 and continued her appearances in public until 1847, when she retired. Her greatest successes were in "Brahm's Lullaby," "La Sylphide" and "La Fille du Danube."

Hercules' ballet, "Mephistophela," displays "Faust" tempted by female Mephistopheles, who exhibits to her victim the most celebrated female danseuses of antiquity, including "Salome," the daughter of "Hercodas," while David is also represented as doing a pas seul before the audience.

The ballet master is said to have been revived from ancient models by the famous Duchesse de Maine, who took a well-known play, had music written for it and set the characters to act it through from beginning to end without speaking a word. It was extremely popular, and so established a fashion.

THE WHY OF IT.

Snow is sometimes of a red color, because of the presence of a minute vegetable cell, the Protococcus nivalis, which secretes a red coloring matter.

A MATCH ignites because of the heat generated by friction. Matches are tipped with phosphorus and sulphur, both highly inflammable substances.

FLIES can walk on the ceiling because their feet are natural air pumps, and form a vacuum so that the body is supported by atmospheric pressure.

SEA shells murmur because the vibrations of the air, not otherwise audible, are collected in the shell and by its shape are brought to a focus.

A SPOON in a glass filled with hot water prevents the breaking of the glass because the metal readily absorbs a large part of the heat of the water.

MANY springs are intermittent, probably because the channels leading from the reservoirs to the surface are crooked and constitute natural siphons.

IRON rusts more rapidly when wet than dry because it has, or seems to have, a greater affinity for oxygen when the latter is combined with hydrogen.

A BLACK down grows under the feathers of many birds at the approach of winter because down is the best non-conductor and black the warmest color.

A NEW Geographical Apparatus.

This is a glass globe, a physical instrument to produce currents similar to sea currents. It consists of a glass globe under the interior well of which are constructed the massive outline of continents and the hollows of sea basins. The bottom of the sea is formed of an interior sphere, concentric with the one of glass, moving on a horizontal axis, and having a gear-wheel.

The sea basin is filled with water containing pieces of steerine in suspension, which render all its movements visible. The exterior of the apparatus does not differ much from that of a geographical globe, and its merit is that it tends directly to facilitate the study of geography, so far as the sea currents are concerned.

HAD HIS OWN WAY AT LAST.

But It Required a Musket with Fixed Bayonet Even Then.

Here is an incident of the Peckskill camp which shows that at least one brave soldier boy remained there. Among the skirmishers in the camp on the Fourth was the wife of a private in one of the separate companies. Her husband was in the guard detail for the day and had been posted as a sentry guarding a portion of the camp where visitors are not allowed.

The wife after searching vainly for him in his company street at last discovered him at his post. She ran up to him, but stopped in dismay before a leveled bayonet.

"Halt! Who is there?" sternly challenged the sentry.

"Why, John, don't you know me?"

"You can't come any nearer." The wife moved a step. "Halt! Corporal of the guard, post 7," he shouted.

The corporal ran from the guard tent to see the wife confronted by her sentinel husband. All three were from the same town and the corporal knew the couple well.

"Sentry, what is the matter? That's your wife," he said, in astonishment. "I know it," said John, with a wink; "but I haven't had my own way since we were married, and I thought I would have it now."

The sentry was soon relieved from duty, and bought ice cream at the restaurant to atone for his cruelty.—Yonkers Statesman.

Not So Fast a Shot.

Rulers have always been flattered, from Czarina's time downward, it being that would seem an unwritten law that a monarch's weak points should pass unrecognized. Napoleon III, once said, in consoling a friend who claimed to be shooting with his poor marksmanship:

"You needn't fret about it; the emperor (by which he meant his uncle, the great Napoleon I) was even a worse shot than you are; the only time they put a gun in his hand, he killed a poor hound, and went away thinking he had killed a stag."

"In those days the stag, wherever brought to bay, was left for the emperor to kill. One day, however, the emperor was not to be found, and the master of the stag hunted, finished the animal with his knife. Just then the emperor came in sight.

"They hurriedly got the dead stag on its legs, propped it up with branches, and forth, and handed the emperor the 'carbine of honor' as he called it. The stag was fired, and, of course the stag tumbled over, but at the same time there was a piteous whine from one of the hounds, which had been shot through the head.

"The emperor wheel round, unconscious of the mischief he had done, saying to one of his aides-de-camp: 'After all, I am not as bad a shot as they pretend!'—Youth's Companion.

W. McGuire, a well-known citizen of McKay, Ohio, is of the opinion that there is nothing as good for children troubled with colds or croup as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He has used it in his family for several years with the best results, and always keeps a bottle of it in the house. After having grippe he was himself troubled with a severe cough. He used other remedies without benefit, and then concluded to try the chamberlain's medicine, and to his delight it soon effected a permanent cure.

FERRETS AND FERRETING.

How THE FERRETS Are Handled
What They Eat and How They Are Fed

In England ferrets are kept for work than as pets and are used for catching rabbits bolt from their burrows. To do this scarcely any training is necessary; the three young ferrets which we used the other day worked as well as their more experienced parents. There are various reasons why white ferrets are to be preferred as opposed to the brown or polecat variety. They are usually more docile and less pleasant to handle. A brown ferret, however, is nipped up by a sharp dog in mistake for a rat or rabbit, while a white one is always apparent, even when moving among the densest herbage. This specially applies to night time, and hence poachers invariably use white ferrets. Gamekeepers who know their bushmen prefer ferrets taken from pens rather than from the wild, as they carefully select his ferret. The poacher does not care for damage and I did. Suddenly she gave a little laugh.

"Why are you giggling?" I asked rather crossly.

"Because the world amuses me," she murmured.

A very good reason, to be sure. But when the world amused me I never laughed. Painette is more than clever for to be still more bizarre in her notions than clever so I asked:

"Why does it amuse you?"

"Well, for example, is it not better to dance, to dance always one way, round and round, with no aim to get nowhere, only to go round, to twist?"

"Yes; very stupid."

"And is it not better to stay up till morning when one's bed is ready at eight o'clock? And is it not stupid to wear gloves when one's arms are prettier than one's neck? The world amuses me!" And she laughed softly to herself, and I could not help thinking what she said was true; and I no longer envied the merry-makers, but thought anyone would envy me my solitude a few days and my intellectual companion. Some moods need only a straw to balance them.

TWO SIDES TO THE QUESTION.

In Fitting Spectacles Bowes to the Ears
Both Must Be Considered.

Having selected a pair of frames with a nose piece of the right height and spread to bring the glasses into the proper position, and having had them fitted with glasses made in accordance with the optician's prescription, the optician now proceeds to fit the completed spectacles to your head, says the New York Sun. You might put them right on and wear them off just as they are.

But no, he reaches over and places the bows over your ears himself. Then he tries the spectacles gently, as they rest upon your nose, taking hold at the outer ends of the frame, where the bridge is. Not quite right. He takes them off again and stretches the bows out between the tips of his fingers and changes their shape a little and tries them again. Better, but not just right yet. He takes them again, and smooths out and bends in a little more. You observe as he handles them to you, as he does this time, that the bows have not only been changed in width, but also that they vary in sweep and curve. You put them on and find that they fit perfectly and very comfortably. He touches them and says so.

"But the bows are not alike," you say.

"No," says the optician, "but they are now made to fit. Your ears are not just alike. One of them is a little bigger than the other, and the bows not placed exactly alike on the head."

"What?" you say, and he says: "Yes. There are very few of us that are perfect or just alike on both sides."

Bursting the Bag.

"One form of amusement that children have now that they didn't use to have when I was a boy," said Mr. Bozzani, "is the fun of bursting the bags. Novelties many things come from the store and elsewhere in paper bags and 'let me bust the bag' is a familiar household request. The youngster takes the empty bag and with his thumb and forefinger around the open end of it he forms a neck with an opening through which he can pull his hand. Then with a suit which he brings the bag down upon the other hand and bursts it with a report whose loudness is determined by the size of the bag, the fullness of its inflation, the tightness of the grip around the closed neck, and the force of the blow. The modern small boy ought to be grateful for this continuous domestic Fourth of July of many primitive thrills that his fathers enjoyed that were quite unknown to his fathers."

Still on the Treat.

The queen glanced haughtily about her. "What, ho," she cried, "where tarrieth my lord?"

"Your Highness," answered the chamberlain, bowing low, "his majesty is in the throne room treating with the foreign ambassadors."

The royal consort sneered.

"Treating, foortho," she said, weary, "and after all the money it cost him to take the gold cure." — Toledo Blade.

Henry Wilson, postmaster at Westlawn, Florida, says he has a method of diarrhea, spending in six months with one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy. What a pleasant surprise that must have been to the sufferer. Such cures are not unusual with this remedy. In many instances only one or two doses are required to give permanent relief. It can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. For sale by John M. Rose.

YOUNG BUT A WISE OBSERVER.

What a Little French Girl Saw at a Ball to Amuse Her.

The little French girl stood at my elbow while I was leaning on the window sill, one little hand supporting her black head, a copy of the New York Advertiser. Far across the lawn she could hear the rise and fall of music and the sound of laughter and of tripping feet. Red and pink lanterns swung from the balconies in night breeze. I was very lonely. It wasn't complimentary to the little girl, but the little French girl did not care for dancing and I did. Suddenly she gave a little laugh.

"Why are you giggling?" I asked rather crossly.

"Because the world amuses me," she murmured.

A very good reason, to be sure. But when the world amused me I never laughed. Painette is more than clever for to be still more bizarre in her notions than clever so I asked:

"Why does it amuse you?"

"Well, for example, is it not better to dance, to dance always one way, round and round, with no aim to get nowhere, only to go round, to twist?"

"Yes; very stupid."

CONGRESSMAN CUMMINGS

Does the Handsome Thing by a Hebrew Boy of New York City.

One morning some months ago Democratic Congressman Cummings, who is a candidate for re-election, was disturbed by a ring on the bell of his hall door in Charlton street. He went to the door himself, and found there a bright, intelligent looking Hebrew boy about 17 years of age.

"What do you want?" asked Mr. Cummings.

"I would like to go to West Point, your honor," said the boy.

"I am afraid you couldn't pass the examination," said the congressman.

"Oh, I'm quite sure I can, said the boy.

"Where do you live?"

"In Avenue B."

"Why don't you bring your father with you?"

"Because he hasn't time to quit his work."

"What does he do?"

"He's a tailor, sir."

"Do you expect me to appoint you?"

"I don't know, sir. You see I'm a Hebrew."

"Well," said Mr. Cummings hotly, "what difference does that make?"

"You see, sir, the Jews are kind of looked down on," said the boy.

Up to this moment Mr. Cummings had had no idea of granting the boy's request, but his sympathy for the underdog began to swell up. He questioned the boy further and finally said:

"Go to the principal of your grammar school and bring me a letter from him saying that you will be able to pass the entrance examination at West Point.

Then go to Dr. H. and give him to give you a certificate of your physical condition. When you have done these things come back to me. But don't tell a soul."

The boy's teacher gave him a good character, both for conduct and proficiency in his studies. The doctor certified that he was as sound as a bell from top to toe, and the congressman promptly gave him the coveted nomination.

Speaking of the master afterward Mr. Cummings said: "I suppose that West Point has never before had a cadet appointed without personal, political or family influence of some kind being invoked. But when I was a boy just about his size I was mad to go to the army. I lived near Newark at that time, and I got several strong letters commanding me to the local congressman, among others one from Theodore Frelinghuysen, the Whig candidate for vice president on the Henry Clay ticket of 1844. The congressman gave me a conditional promise that he would appoint me, and I worked hard at my books for several months preparing myself for the entrance examination. When the final day came the congressman appointed his own son. Ever since then I have felt that I would like to give some boy the chance that I had missed. The boy is now in the College of the City of New York preparing for his entrance examination next June, and I understand he is doing very well and likely to make a good soldier.—New York cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.

EUROPEAN ECHOES.

Just before his election the president of the French republic was learning to ride the bicycle. He has had no time to get it late, but Mme. Casimir-Périer and her children are good riders. It seems likely that the Eiffel Tower will be taken down. The committee in charge of the competition for the buildings for the Paris exposition of 1900 has just agreed that the architects may discard the tower in their designs.

Over 300,000 children within the school age in London, between 450,000 and 500,000 are educated in schools controlled by the London school board. They are taught by 7,800 teachers, one teacher to more than sixty pupils, at a cost for instruction of $13 a year per child.

Hallelujah! Lasses in Paris have rid themselves of seduction by appearing on the boulevards in a new style of headgear. Instead of the scuttle-shaped "kiss-me-nots" they wear round white straw hats with slightly upturned brims, exposing their profiles and back hair.

Two RUSSIANS, MM. Menkhoudjinoff and Oulandoff, recently arrived at Siam, having traveled over 10,000 miles and nine months through Tibet, in the course of which they visited Lhasa and had an interview with the Dalai Lama. It is the first time since 1811 that Europeans have accomplished this feat.

In Upper Tonkin there are wood mines, according to the report of the French Consul. The wood, which was originally a pine forest, was swallowed up by the earth, which covers it to a depth of eight yards. Some of the trees are a yard in diameter; the wood is imperishable and is sold to the Chinese for coffins.

FINANCE AND INDUSTRY.

The former St. Louis City Lake Superior & Chicago Railroad company has filed articles to build a railroad from Denver through to Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, Winnipeg, Galena and Chicago, Ill.

It is the opinion of the New York Journal of Commerce, after a careful investigation, that coal gas in the new method can be made at a profit with a price to consumers at 75 cents a thousand feet.

The Tehuantepec railway, Mexico, will be opened soon. The line crosses the isthmus almost north and south through the states of Vera Cruz and Oaxaca, is about 170 miles long and the first transcontinental line built in Mexico.

The coal output of Missouri has increased 40 per cent. in the last five years. In 1893 it amounted to 3,100,442 tons an increase of 173,157 tons over 1892, although the number of mines in operation in 1892 was 51 less than in the preceding year.

CONSULAR reports show that the consumption of Egyptian cotton by the New England mills has grown from nothing ten years ago to more than 40,000 large bales, corresponding in weight to 60,000 American bales, and approximately valued at $3,000,000.
